DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 5,496,373 (Schmidt; cited by Applicant).

Schmidt discloses the claimed invention including a prosthetic device comprising multiple elongate members, a plurality of bores, block members and fastening means (see, e.g., Figs. 1, 2 and 5). Schmidt does not explicitly recited that the device may be formed of wood or cellulosic materials. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the device from wood or cellulosic materials, or from any other suitable and known material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. It would have been further obvious to utilize an open channel design as closed and open designs are old and well-known equivalent structures for telescopically adjustable devices (e.g, as evidenced by US Pat. No. 3,757,807).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 09 October 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argument regarding the open channel design is moot in view of the new ground of rejection.

Applicant argues that the device of Schmidt solves a different problem than the present device. However, since it would be obvious to construct the device from wood or cellulosic material or any of numerous other materials for their own advantages and reasons (e.g. cost, availability of materials, weight, flexibility, etc.) and the resulting structure formed of such materials would inherently meet the claimed use, the differences in the problem to be addressed as envisaged by Schmidt vis-à-vis Applicant is irrelevant.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
